1. According to an instruction of the German Administration of the Interior, issued on 17 January 1949, members of the German Economic Commission (DWK) are subject to "zonal law". The GAI order states that arrests and searches of members (of the DWK) are permissible only with the specific approval of the GAI, the Chiefs of the Laender police, and the Police President in Berlin. Exemptions from this rule may be made when the individual is caught red-handed, or when there is reasonable suspicion that he was planning an illegal border crossing.
